

Abstract Of The Disclosure

A control unit featuring clocked data transmission between a processor and at least one further circuit, the processor itself outputting the clock pulse. The processor monitors the clock pulse based on the output signals of at least two clock outputs.